

The school as a social incubator

'Social incubator' is a metaphor for providing the environment both physically and intellectually to promote human growth and adaptation. Tomorrow's citizens need to be knowledgeable about the past, skilled in intellectual endeavour and capable of devising unique ways to adapt to the society and world that they inherit and then manage.

These strands demonstrate the centrality of interaction.

Please feel free to reproduce this diagram with source acknowledged.

© David Stewart EDEX Services Ltd.